Garland Man Charged With Molesting Girls

A Garland City man, E. A. (Bud) Price, about 35, was charged here today on three counts of wilful intention of indecent exposure to minors. Price was described as a well-to-do Miller County planter.

The charges were filed by C. V. Nunn Jr., following an investigation of incidents which occurred at three Hope grade school on Wednesday. Prosecuting Attorney Travis Mathis indicated later that in all probability a fourth charge would be filed.

Chief of Police Jack Brown, who carried out the investigation, said a man accosted at least eight and possibly more young girls at three Hope grade schools last Wednesday indecently exposing himself. He said that the ages of the girls ranged from seven to about 12.

The license number of the car used by the man was given to police by a housewife who saw one little girl talking to the man. A check by City Police revealed the license had been issued to a car owned by the Garland City man.

Price was arrested this morning at Garland City and returned to Hope where the charges were filed. He was expected to be released today on a $2,500 cash bond, Mr. Nunn said.

A preliminary hearing has been set for Monday, January 23.

Man Who Kills Jilted Suitor Weds Woman

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A Fort Worth girl and a 28-year-old draftsman who earlier in the day shot and killed her jilted suitor were married last night behind the locked doors of Trinity Lutheran Church.

Serious and unsmiling, Frankie J. Wilcoxon was wed to Miss Manice McKee 8.1 in rites attended by only seven persons. Five uninvited guests—a reporter, photographer, and three small boys—watched the ceremony through the glass windows of the locked doors.

Wilcoxon's wedding day started shortly after midnight when he shot and killed John Hoyt Blythe, 23, a railroad employee and a student at Arlington State College.

Wilcoxon told police his car was curbed by an automobile driven by Blythe.

"If you're not man enough to get out, I'll drag you out," Wilcoxon quoted Blythe as saying.

The draftsman said he had a pistol in the car and when Blythe grabbed the keys to his car, he pointed the weapon at him.

"He made a grab for it and it went off," Wilcoxon said.

The bullet struck Blythe in the forehead. He died a short time later in a hospital.

Wilcoxon said Blythe had once dated Miss McKee and more recently had been "bothering" her.

The mother of the slain man, Mrs. Virginia Blythe, refused to believe Wilcoxon's version of the shooting. "Hoyt was decoyed to the scene. He will never be able to tell his side," she said.

Wilcoxon was charged with carrying a pistol and released on $1,000 bond. Asst. Dist. Atty. Randall Riley said the case will be presented to the grand jury.

Two More Friday 13ths This Year

CHICAGO (AP)—Persons who are superstitious probably are a little more cautious today—Friday the 13th. There will be two more Friday 13ths falling on the 13th of the month in 1956—in April and July. Last year there was only one, in May, and only one in 1954, in August.

Ladies Now Have a Chance to Get a Real Laugh at Men Who Go to Annual Clothing Sales

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Ladies, if you want a real belly laugh, I know how you can get it.

Men's clothing stores across the country now are featuring their semiannual sales. Go to a few. They hold more real comedy than any show in town.

You don't have to buy anything. Just stand around and watch.

For generations the conduct of women at department store sales has been a stock joke in America. They are supposed to be as unreasoning as a herd of cattle in stampede. But today the shoe is on the other foot. If the woman bargain hunter is a scream, the male bargain hunter is an absolute panic.

And the American man is more bargain-minded now than ever before in history.

"Frankly, men act much crazier than women during a big sale," an elderly salesman said. "They are newer at the game and don't know the rules. A lot of them would be ashamed to have their psychiatrists see the way they behave."

Any lady who takes up watching men's clothing sales as a spectator sport should remember to keep a safe distance away. A tug-of-war for a prized shirt between two maddened bucks can be physically dangerous to any bystander, however innocent.

The male bargain hunter breaks down into several common types, and here are a few:

Two Line Up With Russia on Demands

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Two small powers on the U. N. Security Council, Israel and Syria, today with Russia's demand that Israel pay damages for her Dec. 11 attack on Syria.

The council scheduled a second round of debate today on rival Soviet and Western resolutions to condemn Israel. Both condemn the raid on Syrian outpost near the Sea of Galilee, but only the Russians called for a demand on Israel for compensation.

Yugoslavia and Iran were the first supporters of the Soviet contention that Israel should pay damages for the killings of 36 Syrians and destruction of several buildings in the attack. Six Israelis also were killed.

Djalal Abdo of Iran proposed an amendment yesterday to add a compensation clause to the Western resolution sponsored by Britain, France and the United States. Joxa Brillej of Yugoslavia urged a "positive stand" in favor of a payment.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Solovlev told the council that Syria "underwent material losses" and the council must call upon Israel to pay her.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said sponsors of the Western resolution had decided not to mention payment because there was no machinery to work it out. He talked of asking the U. N. Secretariat for suggestions.

One Participant in Brink's Case Tipped Off FBI

By DAVID PICKMAN
BOSTON, (UP)—The state moved swiftly today to prosecute the bandit gang that staged the $1,219,000 Brink's holdup nearly six years ago.

District Attorney Garrett H. Byrne went before a grand jury to obtain indictments. His star witness was expected to be Joseph (Specs) O'Keefe, 49, one of the alleged participants in history's biggest cash robbery.

Byrne entered the grand jury room with two aides to make an initial statement. O'Keefe was scheduled to follow him.

O'Keefe, his wrists manacled to his waist, was brought under heavy guard from East Cambridge jail to the Suffolk county courthouse.

He had been lodged at the jail overnight after "telling all" to Byrne.

The grand jury of 19 members, including three women, has been hearing cases since Jan. 2. Other cases were to have been presented today but were postponed so the jurors could listen to testimony in the Brink's case.

Grand jury proceedings are secret.

With information provided by O'Keefe, the FBI yesterday announced solution of the biggest cash holdup in history, five days before it might have become a "perfect crime."

The deadline for prosecution under the statute of limitations expires Tuesday, preventing the commonwealth from bringing the bandits into court.

Six suspects were arrested yesterday. Two others, including O'Keefe, already were in jail, two were being hunted and one was dead.

Authorities said O'Keefe apparently had a "falling out" with his pals and decided to turn informant. Byrne said no deal was made with the gangster.

In June, 1954 O'Keefe narrowly escaped a machine gunning by paid killer Elmer (Trigger) Burke, who now is under the death sentence in New York for a barroom slaying in that state.

Police have theorized the attempt on O'Keefe's life stemmed from friction among the Brink's gang.

None of the stolen money was recovered.

The solution came as most law enforcement officers were about to give up their long investigation of the crime. The famous holdup occurred Jan. 17, 1950, and under Massachusetts law the statute of limitations was scheduled to expire next Tuesday. Most constitutional authorities believed a three-year extension voted by last year's legislature never would have held up in court.

In a dramatic move yesterday, the FBI announced it had taken six men into custody in commando-type raids in the Boston area.

Held in total of $670,000 bail for a hearing Jan. 26 were Adolph (Jazz) Maffie, 44, Quincy, Mass.; Anthony Pino, 45, Boston; Vincent Costa 41, Pembroke, Mass.; Michael V. Geagan, 47, Milton, Mass.; Joseph McGinnis, 52, Boston; and Henry Baker, 49, Natick, Mass.

Police were ordered to pick up James I. Faherty, 44, a Boston bartender, and Thomas F. Richardson, 47, a Weymouth, Mass., longshoreman.

Reynolds Plan to Cut School Building Cost

LITTLE ROCK, (AP)—A revolutionary plan to help the nation's school districts construct needed buildings at greatly reduced costs will be put into effect immediately by Reynolds Metals Co.

The announcement of the plan yesterday by J. Louis Reynolds, executive vice president of the huge aluminum company, one of the nation's largest, drew quick response from Arkansas educators. Reynolds said Arkansas school officials began ringing his hotel room telephone early this morning seeking more information on the plan.

Arrangements for interested schools in Arkansas will be handled by W. R. Stephens & Co., investment brokers, at Little Rock, Reynolds said. He added that W. R. Stephens & Co., would act only to help school officials meet firms willing to finance the projects.

"We are ready for business now," said Reynolds at a news conference yesterday. "Our organization is ready. Our state organizations will be established to control it at the state level."

Reynolds said that under the program, which he originated, the metals company will act without charge as agent for any school district in the nation which wants to construct a building.

The company, he said, will arrange for financing, design, construction and equipping the buildings to fit the individual needs of the district. Private sources will finance the construction, he said, and will regain their money by leasing the buildings to the school districts for 30 to 40 years. The district's lease payments will be the buildings until the district eventually obtains ownership of them.

Satellite Launching Site Is Selected

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Navy and Air Force announced today that the launching site for the earth satellite project will be Patrick Air Force Base, Cocoa, Fla.

The two services said the base was selected "on the basis of operational requirements for large rocket launchings, and is suitable to the scientific needs of the program."

The base has a firing range for rocket and missile tests which extends southeastward over the Atlantic.

The statement recalled a previous announcement that test firings of the components of the satellite would be carried out first, although exact launching dates have not been determined.

Political Words Hurlled by Officials

LITTLE ROCK, (AP)—Atty. Gen. Thomas Gentry declared today that "no amount of squirming and ducking" would enable Gov. Orval Faubus to deny that he had violated a pre-election promise to close down illegal gambling in the Hot Springs area.

Faubus' reply to that, in an apparently politically inspired battle of words which began yesterday, was:

"If the attorney general has information that gambling is going on, let him close it down."

Gentry and Faubus issued statements yesterday with Gentry's coming first—that the other was negligent in stamping out illegal gambling in the resort city. Gentry, considered an aspirant for Faubus' job, today charged that "the governor is playing footsie with the gamblers of Hot Springs and making an attempt to hoodwink the respectable citizens of the state."

"To be violently opposed to betting on aces in one section of the state and to tolerate and condone illegal gambling at the dice tables and roulette wheels in another section arouses the question of why such inconsistency?"

U. S. Planning Atom Tests in Spring

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is going ahead this spring with more atomic weapons tests in the Pacific. Apparently heeding cautions from abroad, however, it will tone down the nuclear blasts.

In what amounted to an official rejection at this time of demands that all the big powers quit testing nuclear weapons, the Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department announced last night.

1. Preparations are under way for a series of nuclear tests to begin this spring at the Eniwetok proving grounds in the Marshall Islands of the mid-Pacific.

2. Because there are no "effective international agreements" in effect to limit or control armaments, the United States must continually endeavor "to maintain the most modern, efficient military strength for the purposes of peace."

3. The tests will involve use of weapons for which the power will be "substantially below that of the maximum 1954 test." This reference, is a supplementary statement by AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss, was to the superpowerful blast of March 1, 1954.

Officer Monroe Taylor of El Dorado said Smith made a threat Aug. 28 after complaining to the policeman that he had caught Vernon Buck Layne and Mrs. Smith together near the Union County city.

The policeman said he told Smith that the police department could do nothing about his complaint. Smith, who was "pretty mad," replied he "knew who the man was and he'd catch up with him later," said Taylor. Smith told him the man was Layne, the officer said.

As the officer testified, Smith dropped his head to one hand, and turned his face from the Circuit Court jury. His wife, who was sitting nearby with their children, displayed no emotion.

Testify Smith Threatened Victim Once

FORDYCE (UP)—Livestock dealer Bill Smith, fighting for his life in a first degree murder trial here, once threatened to "catch up" with the man he's accused of slaying, a policeman testified yesterday.

Officer Monroe Taylor of El Dorado said Smith made a threat Aug. 28 after complaining to the policeman that he had caught Vernon Buck Layne and Mrs. Smith together near the Union County city.

The policeman said he told Smith that the police department could do nothing about his complaint. Smith, who was "pretty mad," replied he "knew who the man was and he'd catch up with him later," said Taylor. Smith told him the man was Layne, the officer said.

10 Towns Join Forces in Hope Rally of 200

Southwest Arkansas cranked up for a final drive to obtain Millwood dam at a mass meeting of 200 persons from 10 cities and towns held in Hope city hall Thursday night.

Organization of a water district was voted and Chancellor James H. Pilkinton was elected acting chairman by acclamation. The organization will be made permanent at a meeting to be held in Texarkana January 28.

The new district went on record for a "wet Millwood"—as opposed to the latest plan of the Corps of Engineers to build several stream dams with reservoirs, industrial and agricultural, but cutting Millwood to three-quarters size and leaving its watershed dry except in time of flood.

The recommendation of the district for a real reservoir at Millwood site will be forwarded once to the Corps of Engineers and the appropriate committees of congress.

A large delegation from Texarkana was headed by Boyd Tackett, former Arkansas congressman, and Mayor Haskell Hay of the Kansas-side city.

Mr. Hay said the two-state has but one chamber of commerce and he brought to the meeting expression of "solid support" of the Texas-side city as well in fight to develop Millwood dam, a vital water resource for the area.

Mr. Tackett blasted as propaganda the report that the people of his area ever had agreed to accept in advance a reservoir Little river by the Corps of Engineers which would make the Millwood dam location a dry reservoir.

Never in Deal
"We have no quarrel with the Engineers' survey insofar as their recommendation for the new upstream dam is concerned," he said, "but a dry Millwood never was in the deal at any time."

"If they need agricultural and industrial water at those upstream points we certainly need it—and a lot more of it—down here."

The Hope meeting was the second to be held within a month under the auspices of the Red River Valley association, a Hope delegation along with others having attended a policy meeting in Texarkana in December when a sentiment crystallized for an all-out fight to get Millwood built as a weapon to beat the drought for agriculture, and to attract industry here with the promise of an "unlimited water supply."

Roy Matthews of Shreveport, executive vice-president of the Red River Valley association, told Thursday night's meeting in Hope that, "You read about our government's dallying with a proposition to help build a billion-dollar dam for Egypt on the Nile, river, which it would make more sense for the government to be building dams here at home for our own people."

District Necessary
The necessity for organizing a water district at this time was explained by both Mr. Matthews and his associate, W. Marvin Watson, field representative of the Red River Valley association. Harold Hall, past president of Hope Chamber of Commerce, asked if it weren't true that even if there should be a reservoir behind Millwood dam when it is ultimately built "We can't have any of that water in the future unless we build up now before the dam is built."

The RRVA men said that if correct. Communities have to make their intention known to congress in advance.

And Mr. Tackett added: "What same is true for the boys upstream. They've got to organize a water district just like ours if they want to use any water from any dam."

Why? Because the boys upstream have more water than we do. They've got to organize a water district just like ours if they want to use any water from any dam."

Ferguson-Atkins Betrothal Told

In a candlelight setting at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle Saturday evening at eight o'clock Miss Doris Jean Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ferguson, became the bride of Airman First Class Weaver D. Atkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Atkins. The Rev. W. C. Land officiated assisted by the Rev. George Hicks.

The altar was decorated with baskets of white gladiolus flanked by jade trees. Cathedral tapers forming an arch and entwined with greenery were lighted by Miss Bobbie Tullis and Miss Virginia McRoy. Miss Tullis wore a ballerina length dress of yellow net over yellow taffeta. Miss McRoy's dress was of blue net over pink taffeta. Both wore wristlets of feathered carnations.

Mrs. W. C. Land was organist and played the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Mrs. Wilford White who sang, "Indian Love Call" and "Because."

Mr. Ferguson gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown was fashioned of white slipper satin with full skirt fitted bodice, and scalloped neckline. The sleeves ended in petal points at the wrists. Her finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a small white satin hat encrusted with pearls. Her only ornament, a strand of pearls, was a gift of the groom. Upon a white Bible she carried a cluster of white feathered carnations showered with satin ribbon.

Serving her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Preston Sinyard who was dressed in a ballerina length frock of blue net over taffeta with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt formed of silver-edged ruffles. She carried a nosegay of pink feathered carnations.

Doyle Atkins was his brother's best man. Ushers were Preston Sinyard and A. T. Jones.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Ferguson wore a two-piece dress of black faille with white hat and gloves. The groom's mother wore black crepe with matching accessories, and each had a corsage of white carnations.

The detailed story of the industrial prospects for water, and how a water district is financed, was told by Mr. Watson of the RRYA. His story was based on the Ferrell's Bridge Reservoir Water District formed a couple of years ago by seven east Texas cities. Mr. Watson said the district had received more than 200 inquiries from industrial prospects seeking locations with a large water supply. He said Daingerfield, a town of 4,500 might conceivably become a city of 25,000 in the next decade due to the new water supply shortly to be made available by the great reservoir. At this point C. V. Hope city attorney, interrupted to tell of a visit he made to Daingerfield with W. S. Atkins, past city attorney, both men being impressed with the way seven separate cities had joined in a mutual contract to make water available to all of them.

Mr. Watson went on to explain that water districts operate entirely on revenue bonds. There are no land tax bonds, and, even if there were, land tax bonds couldn't be considered until the people had voted specifically for them.

In reply to a question from Frank King, president of Hope Chamber of Commerce, as to the relative cost of water from a reservoir and water pumped from wells, Mr. Watson said:

"We checked the records of the Texas towns participating in the Ferrell's Bridge Reservoir District and found the cheapest cost of any of them was 28c per thousand gallons. On the other hand, the engineers figure that on a basis of 160 million gallons per day the reservoir water will cost 74c — about a quarter the cost of pumped water.

Revenue Bonds Only

To this, Mr. Matthias added:

"It isn't going to cost you anything at the present time to indicate to the congress your desire to have water from Millwood dam. But you do have to set up this water district organization and give the congress advance notice of your intention."

"In actual practice all water districts are financed by revenue bonds only, and these revenue bonds have been self-liquidating throughout the entire United States. In no instance have land tax bonds been issued, and even if they were ever proposed you have the specific protection of requiring a vote on them."

Mr. Tackett interspersed this comment:

"This water district is not an improvement district. It has no implied threat whatsoever of a land tax, as was the case of the old-time improvement district which our people know about."

Represented officially at the Hope meeting, in response to written invitations by Hope Mayor H. M. Olsen and others were the following cities and towns:

Hope, Texarkana, Wilton, Lewisville, Emmet, Fulton, Stamps, Prescott, Washington and McNab.

2. The lost soul—he never bought anything before in his life without the advice and consent of his mother, his father, his wife or his lawyer. He stands alone, his eyes crying help, while the big bullock shoves him out of the way. He ends up buying an overcoat the color of a mud-colored fried egg two sizes too large for him and goes out the door mumbling to himself, "But all I wanted was a pair of knitted gloves."

3. The wandering destroyer—he paws through and wrecks eight shelves of shirts, paws a dozen neckties off the rack and onto the floor, paws half a dozen spoons coasts on and off. Then, without purchasing anything, he wades out of the wreckage waving a merry paw in goodbye. He enjoys himself more than anybody.

4. The cautious investor—he begins by fingering the $200 cashmere polo coats marked down to $149.50. He wants to know the name of the manufacturer and whether the manufacturer is happily married. He wants to know what country the cloth came from and the condition of its economy. He finally offers $99.50 for the coat, and when that offer is refused buys a four-bit handkerchief and leaves, blowing his nose in indignation.

5. The lord of the manor—this crisp fellow snaps his fingers imperiously at the salesman, demands the best of service—and for some reason gets it. Awed members of the herd stand aside as he tries on half a dozen suits, loudly criticizing the cut, color and cloth of each. He winds up by taking a 95-cent pair of socks and walks out with the lordly air of a man who has just bought a yacht.

6. The gay spendthrift—this cheerful madman seems to be the salesman's best friend, but actually in his worst enemy. He likes anything and everything he sees. He selects a dozen shirts, three suits, two sport jackets, a couple of topcoats, and several pairs of shoes. The bill doesn't worry him.

79-Year-Old Has 25-Year Old Wife

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Frank L. Shaw, 79, ex-mayor of Los Angeles, walked down the gangway of a freighter at nearby Wilmington with a pretty blonde on his arm, and told newsmen:

"Fellows, I'm going to let you in on a little secret. This is Mrs. Dortha Sheehan Shaw, my wife since Feb. 2, 1953."

Shaw said he and the 25-year-old ex-secretary had just returned

Why should it? Next Monday his wife will send every single thing back to the store. Girls, don't miss the chance to see the American male at a men's bargain sale. It's your best bargain in entertainment. All it will cost you is the price of the zipper on your girdle. You'll bust it laughing.

yesterday from their third honeymoon. This time they visited South America, he said. Previous junkies were to Hawaii and Europe.

Shaw was mayor from 1933 to 1938. His first wife Cora died in 1951 at the age of 68.

"We're very happy," said Mrs. Shaw. "The difference in our ages makes no difference to me."

It looks high priced ...but it's the '56 Chevrolet!

THE NEW BEL AIR SPORT COUPE—one of 19 high-priced-looking Chevrolet models.

Who wouldn't mistake this handsome new Chevrolet for a high-priced car!

It looks strictly "upper bracket" with its bold new Motoramic styling... its longer, lower hood... its proud new grille that spans the full front end.

Even the details would do credit to an expensive car... like the sleek, high-fashion taillights (the left one hides the gas cap!).

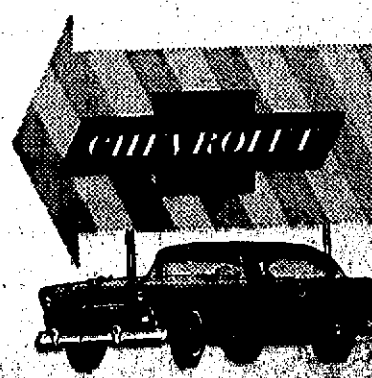

But, even beyond the costly appearance of its Fisher Body, Chevy gives the high-priced cars a run for their money. For it's one of the few great road cars built today!

It brings you the added security of nailed-down stability on turns and lightning acceleration for safer passing. Horsepower now ranges all the way up to 205! All engines now have hydraulic-hushed valve lifters.

Of course, Chevrolet has safety door latches in all models. In addition, you can have seat belts, with or without shoulder harness, and instrument panel padding at extra cost.

There's a new Chevrolet just made for you. So come in and highway-test it.

When The CHURCH BELLS TOLL

MILLET has done us all rich service in painting The Angelus. A workman in the field, head bowed in reverent worship, has turned from his toil to remember the great God, because the distant church bell tolled, reminding him of his dependence on his Maker and Friend and Saviour. Gratitude, humility, and worship make this man worthy of our thought and honor. Man at worship is man at his best.

How much richer we should be as a people if not only once a week, but many times through the week the Church Bell should summon us to remember our Divine Creator! The people of Adano were right; community life is not complete without the Bell tolling men to prayer and to reverent living. It would be a noble act if every person in the community would join in providing the Bell for their common religious living. The man who puts a dollar into the Church Bell makes it in a very real sense his own voice calling him and all men to their knees. The Church which lifts the Bell again to its place of eminence in the Church Tower may again make religion the heart of the common life.

RELIGION must become again a matter of every day; the Church must call men more frequently to prayer, even when they cannot enter the church door; the beautiful chimes may send their music of Heaven and Eternity into our hearts and homes. Why not see to it that every town and hamlet shall have at least one Bell to speak for the interests of the soul in an age gone Power-mad? Above the sound of rushing train and speeding automobile let men hear the sweet music of the Church Bell tolling men to God. We are the eternal children of the Eternal Father. The Church Bell summons us to remember and to pray.

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Recently I wrote of the great clarity and simplicity with which the Gospel by Luke sets forth the New Testament message of the Gospel of God's Grace, especially in the parables recorded in Luke 15.

It is with equal simplicity and clarity that Luke's Gospel presents the Christian way of life, not only in man's response to God, but in all relationships with his fellow men.

The greatest of all these presentations, that unfortunately many people and many professing Christians have shamefully neglected, is the Parable of the Good Samaritan (Luke 10).

But that is only one of various equally clear presentations of the teaching of Jesus concerning attitude and conduct. I think that perhaps the most distinctive of these is in the story in Luke 7 of the supper in the home of a Pharisee. It was there that a woman "which was a sinner" came and washed the feet of Jesus with her tears, and anointed them with an alabaster box of ointment.

The woman, whatever her actual character, had an ill reputation.

Sermon: "Growing In Grace"

Monday

7:30 p. m. Circle No. 5 of the WSCS will meet in the home of Mrs. Virgil Keeley with Mrs. Grover Thompson, as co-hostess.

Wednesday

7:30 p. m. Adult Choir Practice.

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger group character. In the church the ministerial are molding religion into the lives of the people. State leaders today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" — form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

is not puzzling at all. Why did the Pharisee ask Jesus to his home, yet omit the ordinary courtesy of water for his feet and other incidents of welcome? Was it to satisfy his curiosity, to see what Jesus would do?

I hardly think so. I believe that the Pharisee was sincere enough in his hospitality. I give him credit for good character and good intentions, but there's nothing puzzling about what he lacked.

The trouble with the Pharisee was his attitude; and that is the trouble with a vast part of the so-called Christian world, as it has been, and as it is today.

It is here that Luke's presentation of the Christian way is so incisive and insistent. He lays such stress on attitude—not only on character and conduct, but on the priest and the by their own beliefs and prejudice of Luke 10 may both have dice, to understand, been pious and sincere, according to their lights, but so far as they were concerned it availed nothing for the man stricken by the wayside. The Samaritan, despised as he might have been for his unorthodoxy by the priest and Devite, had the right attitude.

It could not be said that the Christian world has put too much stress on character and conduct. But it can be said, and it ought to be said, that it has put altogether too little stress on Christian attitude.

Character is not enough, unless it is established in a right attitude of love and understanding. It was Luke's great contribution to make that plain.

But plain as he made it, many on character and conduct, but on the priest and the by their own beliefs and prejudice of Luke 10 may both have dice, to understand,
